

The 2020 Freddie Fu Sports Medicine Scholarship Program

Program Description

The scholarship program was developed to increase student interest in a career in sports medicine. One scholarship for the amount of two thousand dollars ($2,000) will be awarded to a selected individual in return for a six-week summer internship (30-40 hours per week for six weeks in a row; starting date to be mutually agreed upon) at the UPMC Freddie Fu Sports Medicine Center. The recipient must have transportation to the clinic during the summer internship.

The recipient will have the opportunity to observe patient evaluation, treatment, and rehabilitation by physical therapists and athletic trainers, observe clients in the Sports Performance Department and observe surgery with Freddie Fu, MD. The recipient will also have responsibilities comparable to those of a physical therapy aide including: greeting patients, preparing treatment areas, and preparing hot and cold packs.

Applicant Qualifications

To qualify for the scholarship the applicant must be a western Pennsylvania resident entering his/her senior year of high school (applicant must be a senior in September 2020). In addition, the applicant must also exhibit a substantial interest in a career in sports medicine. The scholarship will be awarded based on the following:

- Commitment to a career in sports medicine
